

Learn without Limits

Early Start Denver Model (ESDM):

- A relationship-based early intervention model created to work with young children with, or showing signs of, Autism Spectrum Disorder (ASD)
- Is individualized to each child and family while still maintaining a systematic manner of assessing, goal writing, and providing 1-1 intervention
- Is a model that creates learning opportunities within play-based, natural and, child-led everyday routines that are fun!
- Values family involvement as a key element of success

Key components include:

- Research based intervention model
- Family centered practice
- Natural environments and everyday routines
- Play based intervention
- Led by team members with specialized training, supported by a team
- Coaching to adults
